2. I/We warrant and guarantee that all persons whose signatures are required to authorize withdrawals from the Account have signed the Authorization below.

Revocation of the Authorization does not terminate any contract for goods or services that exists between me/us and the Payee.
8. The Authorization applies only to the method of payment and does not otherwise have any bearing on the contract for goods or services exchanged.
9. I/We may dispute a PAD only under the following conditions:

Client Agreement - Individual

THIS AGREEMENT is entered into as of the date below between:

Payline by ICE Limited Partnership (referred to as "Payline")

And

(referred to as the "Client")

DEALS

A Deal, meaning the Client agrees to buy or sell currency using Payline, can be booked either online or by calling our toll-free Trading Desk. In order to complete a Deal online using Payline the Client must click the Book Deal button on the Payline platform. Once the Client clicks the "Book Deal" button the Client will have accepted the Deal and it will be a binding obligation. All incoming wires received by our correspondent banks, for the Client, will incur a $10 fee. All outgoing payments will incur a $20 fee. Any payments submitted by the Client without an associated FX Deal will incur a fee up to $40, depending on the method of transfer requested.

The Client will be responsible for each Deal that is entered into, including any Deal that is entered into by any person who uses a password without proper authorization. However, the Client will not be responsible for any unauthorized Deal that is entered into after the Client has given Payline written notice by mail, courier or fax (in the manner described below) to cancel a user's password.

If for any reason the Client requests to cancel a Deal that has been entered into, the Client must notify Payline immediately by calling the customer support number. Under certain circumstances, Payline may be able to cancel the Deal, and Payline will use reasonable best efforts to cancel the Deal. However, the Client understands that once the Deal has been entered into, the Deal is a binding obligation and the cancellation of any such Deal will be entirely within the sole and absolute discretion of Payline. In addition, for any Deal that is canceled by Payline, the Client must reimburse Payline for any breakage costs and other expenses that may have been incurred.

The terms of each Deal will be set out in the Deal confirmation presented to the Client on the Deal confirmation screen following the acceptance of the Deal. The Deal confirmation is evidence of the terms of a completed Deal. In addition, an automatically generated email confirmation is sent to previously specified users each time a Deal is booked. The Deal will not be invalidated if for any reason the Deal confirmation is not presented to the Client by Payline or the email confirmation is not received, including, as a result of any computer malfunction or email blocking filter. If for any reason the Deal confirmation is not presented to the Client, the records of Payline with respect to that Deal will constitute conclusive evidence of the terms of the Deal. If a Deal confirmation is not presented to the Client for any reason, the Client should notify Payline immediately by calling the customer support number, and Payline will provide the Client with a confirmation setting out the terms of the Deal.

The terms of each Deal set out in the related Deal confirmation are incorporated into this Agreement and form a part of this Agreement. This Agreement and the terms of each Deal together form the agreement between the Client and Payline and together constitute a single agreement between the Client and Payline. If there is any inconsistency between this Agreement and a Deal confirmation, the Deal confirmation will govern.

Once a Deal has been entered into, the Client must make each payment or delivery in the currency, in the amount, on the date and in accordance with the settlement instructions for the Deal, as set out in the related Deal confirmation. The Client must ensure that any account from which the payment obligations under a Deal are to be made contain sufficient cleared funds to settle the Deal on the value date for the Deal. If the account does not contain sufficient cleared funds to settle the Deal, the Client will be liable for any resulting fees payable with respect to the account in accordance with the terms under which they hold such account. In addition, if the Client fails to settle the Deal on the value date for the Deal, Payline may, without limiting any other remedies that it may have, in its absolute discretion cancel the Deal, in which case the Client will have to reimburse Payline for any breakage costs and other expenses incurred by Payline to cancel the Deal.

Client Initial:

If the Client selects a value date for the settlement of a Deal and that date is not a business day in the Province, State or Country in which any of the accounts from which the Client will be making or receiving payment for a Deal resides (that is, if the account is maintained at a branch in that province or state), the value date for the Deal will be the first day following the value date that the Client selected that is a business day in each of the Province's in which such accounts reside, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Deal confirmation.

Payline cannot control nor be responsible for the time it takes Financial Institutions to credit or debit accounts. In the event that a transaction is processed on the next business day for whatever reason, Payline shall not, in the absence of gross negligence or willful misconduct, be responsible for failure, delays or errors in the completion of the transaction and Payline shall have no liability for any resulting or special damages.

In the event of any of the following: sufficient funds are not available at the time of collection, payments are rejected due to lack of information, incorrect information is provided by the client to Payline or investigations are initiated at the request of a client, it will remain the responsibility of the client to cover these costs. Costs will range between $20.00 and $50.00, charged in the base currency of the client and be dependent on the type of rejection. It will remain the responsibility of a Payline employee to take reasonable measures, verbally or written, to notify the client of any costs. In the event that further action is required to ensure collection, it will be the responsibility of the client to pay the amount owed to Payline including any accrued interest at a rate of 15% P/A.

AUTHORITY TO DEAL

In keeping with regulations, an individual account with Payline is only authorized to be held in a single individual's name. Jointly held accounts will not be permitted. The authority to deal therefore lies solely with the individual listed as the account holder.

Information access can be granted to other individuals by the Client. Formal documentation will be required to be submitted to Payline to grant this request. This does not permit the Individual with information access to book deals, have online access, or to provide payment instructions.

Online access "username and password" used by clients shall be relied upon by Payline as an action of that party. If there is any belief that a user name has been compromised it is the responsibility of the Client to notify Payline in writing. In the event that Payline suspects that electronic access information has been shared, therefore breaching the authority to deal clause of this document, Payline holds the right to suspend online access and/or terminate the business relationship with the Client. For clients that choose not to access the secure online system, and choose to communicate instructions to Payline by email, it is expected that the Client will take all reasonable measures to ensure the security of their email accounts; the Client is solely responsible for the security of his or her email accounts.

Electronic access "username and password" used by clients shall be relied upon by Payline as an action of that party. If there is any belief that a user name has been compromised it is the responsibility of the client to notify Payline in writing. For clients that choose not to access the secure online system, and choose to communicate instructions to Payline by email, it is expected that the client will take all reasonable measures to ensure the security of their email account to prevent fraudulent use. The security of the Client's email is beyond the ability of Payline to address, and the client is wholly responsible and liable.

RECORDS

Payline may maintain a database of all the payment instructions entered into the Payline online platform. Payline's records will be conclusive and binding on the Client in any dispute, including in any legal proceedings, as the best evidence of the Deals using the Payline platform, in the absence of clear proof that Payline's records are erroneous or incomplete.

Payline will not be liable to the Client as a result of any payment that it makes pursuant to incorrect settlement or delivery instructions provided by the Client when using the Payline online platform.

SET OFF

If the Client fails to make a payment or delivery when due under this Agreement or under a trade, Payline may without prior notice set-off any amount owing by the Client to Payline under this Agreement or under a Deal, against any amount owing by Payline to the Client, whether or not the amount is owed to the Client under this Agreement or under a Deal.
